Replacing MID-SEMESTER EVALUATIONS AND EARLY ALERT
Mid-semester evaluations (MSEs) provided a uniform measure to reporting students who were underperforming, but it offered only news of under-performance (U) rather than what is causing the unsatisfactory performance and what can be done. While the Early Alert provided more feedback for students and advisers, the Faculty Feedback system allows for early and mid-semester feedback. Like MSEs, these are required for all 00X, 1000 and 2000-level classes and is best utilized within the first six weeks of a semester, when a student has enough time to course correct.

Easy to Access through SAIL (sail.oakland.edu)
The Faculty Feedback system is in the same location as mid-semester evaluations.

1. Select Faculty Feedback from Faculty Services menu.
2. Select each student by the adjacent arrow.
3. Check the boxes of issues and recommendations that apply to each student.
4. Submit the information, which will generate an automatic email to students that reflects the items you selected.

Help our students persist and succeed in their learning. Visit oakland.edu/uge to learn more.