

JOBS OUR ENGLISH & CREATIVE WRITING GRADS HAVE GOTTEN!

The skills that English majors develop are in high demand by today's employers. Most jobs require college graduates who can write and speak articulately, who can develop incisive arguments, and who have good analytical and research skills. All English majors receive in-depth training to help them develop these skills; our students regularly win prizes and receive top academic and professional honors. English majors go on to great success in their professional lives in a wide variety of employment settings, due to their versatile and adaptable skills. The English Department offers internships with many of the companies listed above, as well as a wide selection of others, partnering with businesses, publishing firms, educational enterprises, and nonprofits to give our majors “real-world” experience. For more on internships: <http://www.oakland.edu/?id=12017&sid=322>.

We also offer a Mentoring Program that pairs up current English juniors and seniors with working English alums. The alums have volunteered to help students get ready for the job search. Contact Annie Gilson if you would like a mentor <gilson@oakland.edu>

The English Department also has an excellent secondary teacher education program (STEP) that places grads in middle schools and high schools throughout Michigan and the US. Our graduates are certified to work in public, private, and alternative schools, as well as adult education programs. Our placement rate is one of best in the state. Contact
