

UNIVERSITY OF RICHMOND

(Virginia)

Master of Liberal Arts (MLA)

Program Path:

IDS Type: Departmentally Restricted IDS

Program Type: Foundational IDS Program

Description: The Master of Liberal Arts program at the University of Richmond is a cross-disciplinary program designed for students who wish to work toward a master's degree without limiting their study to a single discipline. Offering a rich and varied educational experience, the program invites the student to design his or her own course of study. In consultation with the program coordinator, the student selects courses from the humanities and social sciences which support a theme, topic, or focus chosen by the student and approved by the coordinator. Students may enter the program from academic and career backgrounds as diverse as business and art. Most MLA students attend part-time, but some full-time study is an option. (From website.)
