

I am picturing myself watching people at the mall

Hundreds of shoppers walking by me oblivious to the dangers that lie ahead

Too busy buying lady purse's at Nordstroms to notice their debt crushing them

Too busy texting on their iphones while they are becoming zombies to corporate entities

Too Busy drinking their caramel frappucinos they bought at Starbucks

I decide to stop them before it's too late

But then I realize they are a personal reflection of my personal failings. I need to look in the mirror

I buy shoes at Nordstroms while my debt crushes on me

I play with my iphone and losing my soul

I drink a caramel frappucino while my hearts struggling too keep me alive

We all want world peace

We get frustrated by the lack of decency and humanity in our society

But perhaps the first step to world peace is to look at the mirror to correct our own failings

That reminds me to I need to go look in the mirrow

Catcher In The Rye pg 224

If I thought it was "if a body catch a body I said. "anyway I keep picturing all these little kids playing some game in this big field of rye and all thousands of little kids and nobody's around--nobody big I mean except me, and i'm standing on the edge of some crazy cliff. I mean if they're running and they don't look where they're going I have to come out from somewhere and catch them. That's all I'd do all day.
